GREETERS

The greeter's list has been updated from the Member Interest and Talent Surveys that were filled out. If you signed up to help, please look for your name in the bulletin. If you wish to help with greeting and you did not sign up, please contact the church office and we will add you to the list.

ACTIVITY BAGS

The activity bags are ready. Thank you to Jackie Smith and Sharon Barrow for supplying the material. The bags are for children ages 2-5 years old. They will be kept under the Welcome Center, for now. There are four colored bags: red, yellow, green and blue. Each bag has different activities in them. Encourage your children to chose a different color each week. The bags are to be left at our church building.

"No More Excuses"

If you were not here this past Sunday, then you missed an amazing sermon done by one of our youth, Quincey Trammel. You would've also missed Drew Stidman as he prepared our hearts and minds for the taking of the Lord's Supper. Both of these young men, and their families, should be proud of what they accomplished. As I sat in the back of the auditorium and listened to the sermon, on encouragement, I found myself encouraged. There are a lot of things in life, that I wish I was good at, but sadly I am not. I have always been fascinated with woodworking, especially the ability to create something from seemingly nothing. There are people, even in our congregation, that can take a 2x4 and with a little time create something wonderful; I am not one of those people, and I don't know if I will ever be. That being said, as Quincey shared his thoughts on encouragement, I couldn't help but wonder if the reason I'm not good at woodworking is that I'm holding myself back. Have I ever given it a shot? Is there something in your life that you are convinced you could never do? Now ask yourself, have you tried?

Every Wednesday evening, we have a short devotional before our Bible study lessons. Most of the time Bro. Michael Welch takes that spot and shares with us a few thoughts to help edify our spiritual lives. As much as I love hearing Michael speak, and I truly do, if any of our men are interested in giving a lesson that opportunity is available. Our congregation would be blessed to have those qualified to stand in the pulpit and preach or teach a topic near and dear to their heart. Yet, how many of you are already making excuses? "I can't preach, I can't teach, I'm too scared!" "I don't know enough" "I'm not good enough!" Honestly, though, have you ever tried?

What I saw this past Sunday were two young men who, at the start, were also scared to preach and teach. However, prayer, guidance, and encouragement helped them get over their fears and allowed for them to stand in the pulpit and share with us God's Truth from their heart. If they can do it, so can you! I remember the first sermon I ever preached in college. I remember the knots in my stomach, I remember the sweat dripping down my face, and I remember the fear. There are still some Sunday mornings when I feel the same way, but as soon as I say, "good morning", I am in my element. I got to that point of confidence through practice. If you would've told 15-year-old David that he was going to be a preacher someday I would've laughed in your face. All it took was one person who encouraged me to teach a lesson and helped me prepare, and now thirteen years later here I am encouraging you to do the same thing.

My uncle used to tell me when I was younger, when it came to doing anything, "I can, I will, it's done." It's a phrase that has stuck with me for quite some time and a phrase that I couldn't help but think about a lot this past weekend. So, allow me, if it's okay, to encourage every man in the congregation to think about preaching or teaching in some capacity at least once. And before you tell me no, really ask yourself if you can't, or if you are making an excuse. Lest we forget that we are commanded by God to preach and teach...2 Timothy 4:2, "Preach the word; be ready in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, and exhort, with complete patience and teaching." Mark 16:15, "And he said to them, "Go into all the world and proclaim the gospel to the whole creation." I hope you have a great week, and once again, thank you to Quincey and Drew for leading us this past Lord's Day! May God bless you and whatever you choose to do in life!

David Olmos

It's a double feature! This evening, Tuesday, May 18, our Reading through the Scriptures study will be looking at both the letter to the Colossian church and the book of Philemon. As we have textual evidence to believe that these letters were delivered at the same time, we want to read them in tandem to give us a more complete view of each book respectively. I'm super excited for this, and if you don't normally join us for this study, tonight is the night to join us! If you would like to be a part of this time of reflection on God's Word, join us at 7:00 p.m. on Zoom by following the link below:

We look forward to seeing you there!

Just a reminder to our youth, this coming Sunday, we will be having our Q & A night, where the elders and ministers will be answering the questions you submitted. This event has been rescheduled a number of times, but we did that to ensure that as many people as possible could be in attendance. Be at the church building at 6:00 p.m.
