"Those Honored Dead"

May 27th, 2019, we will celebrate Memorial Day; although to be honest, "celebrate" doesn't seem very appropriate considering the occasion for the holiday. Memorial Day first began in 1868, at Arlington National Cemetery. It was a special day set aside to remember and honor all persons who have died while serving in the United States Armed Forces. Today, people get excited about Memorial Day, or Memorial Day weekend, because it stands as the unofficial start of summer vacation, and a time to spend with family and friends. I'm not here to take away that joy; however, I do not want us ever to forget why we have that day off, or why we have freedom at all. I was curious and did a quick search of the number of U.S. soldiers who have died in war, and the numbers were shocking. Since the Revolutionary War, there have been over 1.2 million U.S. Military deaths. 1.2 million people gave their lives so that we might have the freedoms that we have; the freedom of life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness. So, whatever you do this weekend, take a moment with your friends and family, and say a prayer of thanks for those who have given their lives, and prayer of strength for all those military families who might be struggling.

I'll leave you with a poem by Marion G. Mahoney titled, "Those Honored Dead."

"Why do you fly the flag today?" My grandson wants to know. I fly it for the graveyards where the countless crosses grow. I fly the flag for children whose fathers are a name. A half-remembered memory of a face within a frame. I fly it for the families of sons and daughters lost. They know the price of liberty, how terrible the cost! I fly the flag for veterans who lost their youth in blood. And saw their comrades slaughtered in the carnage and the mud. I fly it for the ones who marched in cadence off to war. To close their eyes forever upon some foreign shore. I fly the flag for grief poured out upon a granite wall. The laying-on of hands that heals the scars within us all. I fly it for the sound of Taps---that melancholy tune that lays to rest those honored dead who always die too soon.

EXPRESSIONS OF GRATITUDE

Dear church family, "It's great to know the world is full of such generous people...like you. In Christian love," Sharon & Gerry Austin

"Dear Christian family, Thank you for helping in the celebration of Ken's life. Thank you for the gift package, cards, and the beautiful flower arrangement. I want to especially thank you for your support in our time of need. Love,"

Kathy, John & Family, and William Davis

Senior Day has come and gone, and that means that our seniors are closer to graduation. I want to thank everyone that came to support the seniors and stay for the potluck and thank those that gave cards of encouragement. This is the last week of school for our students, and then we go into summer break. We will go to camps, trek and Bay Area Wide Devos. This is a time for our students to have a break and relax, but also to take time and be with God. I'm getting more and more excited for trek. It is difficult and tiring, but it is also a time that we can be away from our phones and be with God. It is a trip that allows our teens to grow closer to one another and support each other. On our last trek, it rained and was cold. Had I not been surrounded by supportive and energetic people I would have been miserable. I would have given up and stopped. That is what the church should do; it should support those that cannot support themselves. I encourage you to find someone and give them a boost of encouragement this week. You never know who might need it.
